The museum would showcase the one of the greatest victories of the Indian Armed Forces

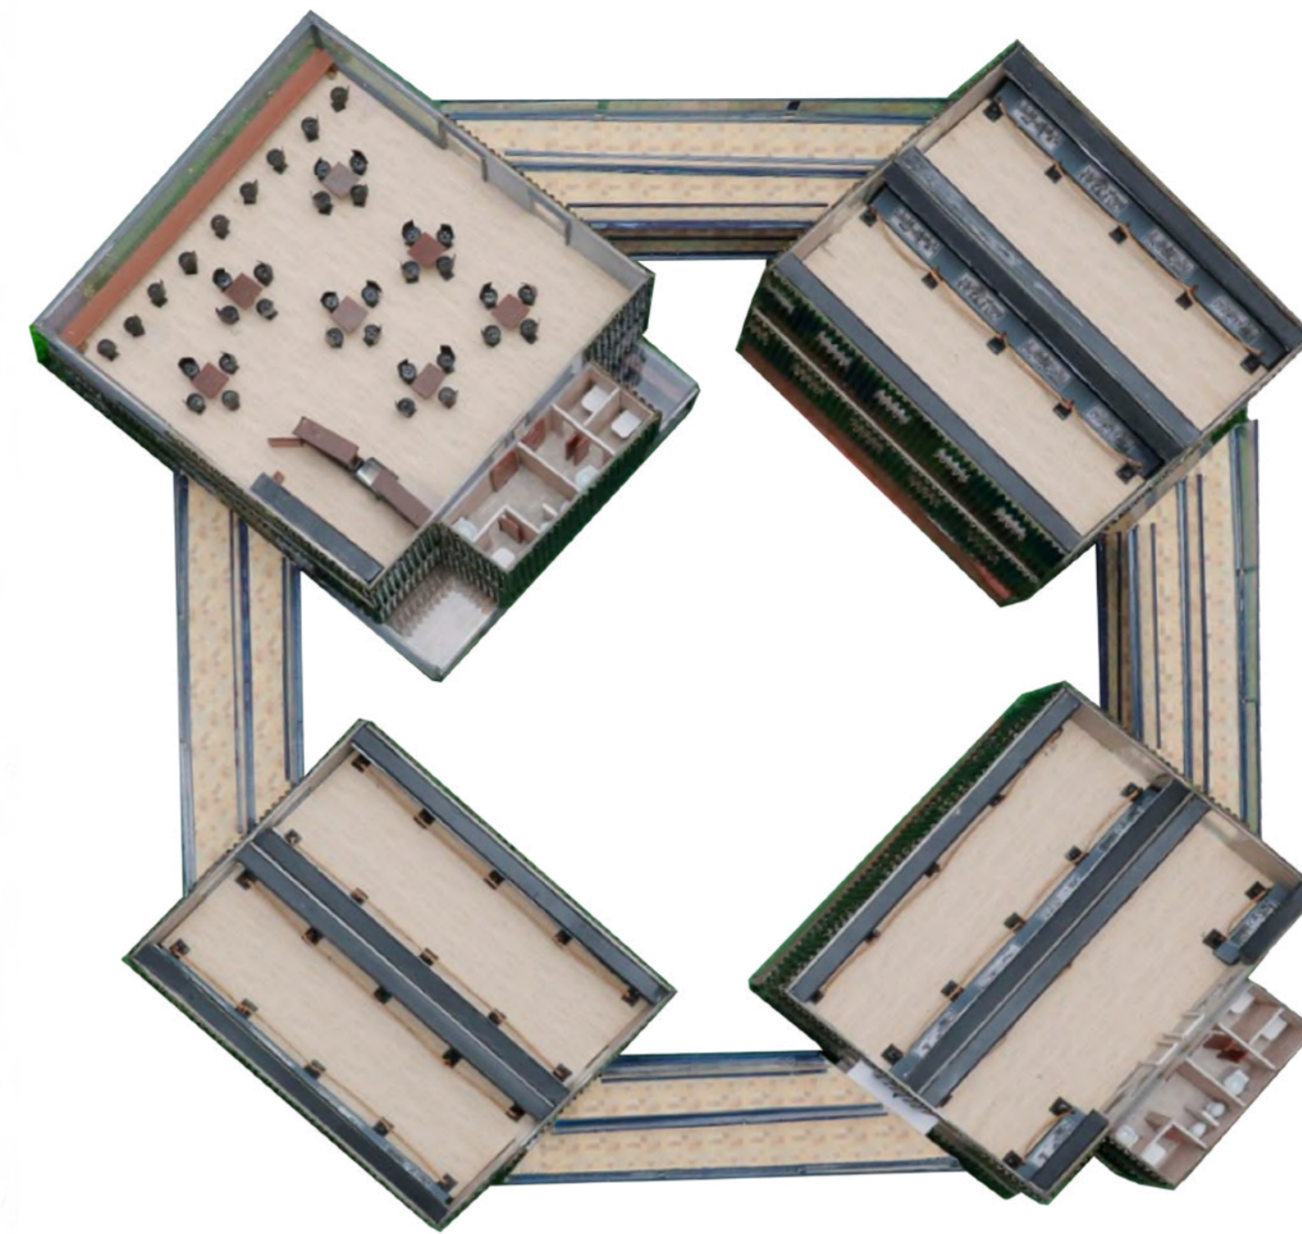

It aims to present the history and memories of 1971 to our youth of today

The museum is to be unveiled on the 50th anniversary of the 1971 war in 2021.

The design of the museum is one of a kind and is created keeping the sustainable needs in mind. The museum will be made of glass, steel and shipping containers that is rust free. They are designed to bear heavy loads and also withstand harsh climatic conditions too. The building will be built in a circular pattern so that the visitors can go from one gallery to another without climbing any staircase. The land allotted to build this museum will not require the transplanting of trees. It is completely user-friendly particularly for a physically challenged person. As one progresses from floor to floor, passing through the displays, one is expected to get a hands-on-experience on how the war was conducted, the sacrifices of the soldiers, the brave stories and the instances of courage and intervention on human grounds and how Bangladesh was finally liberated.
